BIOGRAPY

Flavia Mitolo, comes from a family of sculptors in Pietrasanta (Toscana) where she spends long periods of time; she has been attracted since childhood to the work of the great international masters whom she frequents with great attention. She feels she finds her own way in painting. She graduates from the Liceo Artistico, devotes herself to the field of advertising graphics by studying at the European Institute of Design. In Pietrasanta he follows a rigorous internship with Jack Marshall a sculpture teacher at Yale University. In 1991 he leaves for London, staying there for two years where he has contact with the global culture in constant ferment in the city. Returning to Italy in Milan, for many years she held a job that took her frantically around the world, thus savoring the differences and The colors of our planet. She returned to Rome in 2001, where she resumed her pictorial research with rigor and professionalism. She currently lives and works between Rome and Pietrasanta.
